Highly Important to Farmers.

HAVING purchased the right to use ROMMERS Method of making MANURE in all the towns in the County, not previously disposed of, west of Penobscot, and south of Piscataquis, rivers I am ready to sell the same, by towns or individual rights, as may best suit purchasers.

When it is taken into consideration, that one ton of dry straw can, in ten days of 12 days, be converted into from six to eight loads of rich and virulous manure fit for corn-soils,—that green vegetables and turf, can be made into manure at equal value, in ten days—and that the high temperature produced by fermentation destroys all obnoxious seeds, this invaluable method may be fairly considered as forming a new era in Agriculture! That the foregoing results have been frequently realized by Rommer's process, I am prepared to show by testimony from scientific and practical farmers in various sections of the country.

Single rights will be sold for the moderate price of four dollars, and the purchaser will be furnished (gratuitously) with a book describing the process of making the foregoing, together with many other kinds of compost manure, hitherto unknown in this part of the country. To those who purchase by towns, or by private companies, my terms will be as low as to any other person of the State

Persons at a distance, by forwarding four dollars (post paid), will be promptly furnished with a single right and book as aforesaid.

SPINAL COMPLAINT
POSITIVELY CURED BY THE
Cramp and Pain Killer!!

MESSRS. CURTIS & PERKINS—
Gentlemen:

It is with pleasure that we communicate to you the following facts, and to the public, who may be suffering from disease of a similar character.

Our daughter, a girl of fifteen years of age, was taken down with what is called the Spinal Complaint, and in a few months was almost apparently on the verge of the grave. Her case was examined by different medical gentlemen, and all were of one opinion as to the nature of her complaint, and each prescribed for her, but without any good effect; her form became contracted, her head drawn down upon her left shoulder, and she was unable to walk only a few steps. After trying many highly recommended prescriptions for her relief, but without effect, I called at your Apothecary Establishment to see if I could find any thing that would be likely to help her, and you informed me that the Cramp and Pain Killer, applied with the Plaster accompanying it, had proved effectual to a daughter of yours, and recommended it to me; and we feel happy in saying that we shall ever feel under the deepest obligations to you for recommending so invaluable a medicine which we believe has raised our daughter from a premature grave and entirely cured her. We have purchased seven bottles of the Cramp and Pain Killer, with some of the Plaster, and confidently say they have effected a perfect cure. Our daughter can now travel at any and all times, without feeling any effects from her back—her form is wholly restored, and she is in every way well. Should any doubt the above statement, and at the same time they or their friends are laboring under a similar affliction, if they will call upon us at our residence, Union street, Bangor, we can satisfy the prejudiced mind of the facts. We would further say, that while using the above medicine we bought a bottle of Davis's Pain-Killer and applied it, but while using it found the result different from that manufactured by you: from some cause unknown to us it did not have that virtue in it as that of yours, and we feel in duty bound and gratitude to you to make this acknowledgement for so invaluable a medicine to suffering humanity.

Yours truly,
JOHN W. SHERWOOD.

[illegible] Seward, Editor

FRIDAY, JANUARY 7, 1848.

Increase of the Regular Army.

In the Senate of the U S on Thursday Dec 30 there was a spirited [illegible] debate between several Senators upon the bill providing for an increase of the army which is of considerable interest and to which we wish to direct more attention than we were able to do in the regular account of the proceedings of Congress, and to which we therefore turn back

Gen [illegible] as the chairman of the military committee and reported a bill for an increase of the army and he was desirous of having the subject considered

Mr Calhoun—I hope the Hon Senator does not intend to press the bill to a decision at this late hour—The Senate is extremely thin, and it is a question of so much importance, as every thing must be which is connected with the war that I submit to the Senator in candor as to whether we shall not act more understandingly on what we shall do if we act on it the next few days and to me it would be proper to allow the consideration of this bill to be postponed If the Senator is determined to press the question upon us at this early period, and before any one has had time to fix his views in regard to the subject I shall be constrained to oppose the Senator's motion

Mr Cass—It is not with the slightest wish to express my views that I urge this measure but because I think the good of the country requires it It is simply a bill creating ten regiments the details of which were all arranged by this body at the last Session it is therefore simply a question whether we shall at this late hour add to the force The bill is drafted in the same way as former bills for the same purpose and I think the Senate has to do is to say whether ten regiments shall be authorized to be raised This is a matter which is intimately connected with the progress and with the termination of the war, for it is designed to lead to its termination

I am told it has been already reported some eight or ten days and I therefore hope that the Hon Senator will allow the consideration of the bill to be proceeded with now And the Hon Senator will permit me to observe that I do not see in reference to his objections which others are to bring the discussion of it [illegible] from the Senate before than it may be brought by the bill The object of the gentleman is one of three it is either to operate upon the Administration or upon the country It is not to operate upon the Administration because I [illegible] expressly says that it is not the intention of the Administration to prosecute the war in the view of extinguishing the nationality of Mexico

The general plan of operations taken upon this question is peculiarly clear—it is to make and procure an honorable peace In attempt to prevent the United States from taking possession of Mexico if they demand it would be as futile as to set us to undertake to stop the running of the cataract of Niagara

I myself should think it a very unfortunate thing in regard to the independence of the country and almost [illegible] if we did not the more the war is prosecuted the greater will be the hostility to any annexation What the Administration say is they do not want the territory of Mexico That is rejected at the first and it ought to be rejected in the only plan, were we to keep it upon which we have [illegible] our operations as the gentlemen of the enemy must see it is very unwise and inconsistent in the extreme to say we do not want your territory and we will keep it Now in my view the bill may be taken up at the usual hour of meeting to-morrow, at all the events That is a subject which is not involved in the present question Why then should we [illegible] the vote of him in the same sitting a decision on the great question which, with all [illegible] to the honorable Senator seems to me to have a manner of connexion with the subject before us?

Mr Cass—If the Senator has avowed his intention to proceed with the bill and to press the question upon us now I shall be compelled to oppose it

Mr Clay—For the personal accommodation of the Senator I will consent that the bill shall be over until to-day Beyond that day I cannot consent that it shall be postponed

Mr Calhoun—If that is the case, extend [illegible] to-day I am happy to hear the Senator say that the [illegible] is not to the complete subjugation of Mexico and the extinguishment of her nationality and I am very happy also to hear that the Committee on the Committee on Military Affairs repeats the same thing That being all that I am seeking the gentleman has [illegible] upon the question as he will see more me, we must [illegible] to get into We get into this war although we never intended to get into it, (I will venture to say that in his heart of the question had been [illegible] to the end of the [illegible] dependent of others, never [illegible] would not have been needful of the Senate of the United States Now, my friends and countrymen [illegible] to the country plotted but against consequences that may follow from the measures proposed—which consequences are not contemplated That is the object Now whether the additional force shall be granted will depend on the action of the Senate [illegible] announced by the Executive they will [illegible] in practical consequences tend to the extinction of the nationality of Mexico but I differ with him to that point and do think satisfied that the [illegible] I am not prepared to vote in favor of the measure that is proposed Sir, though the honorable Senator, himself, is very properly opposed to the extinguishment of the nationality of Mexico, we know that there are many of a totally different opinion and we know there are many who believe that such will be the result, whether intended or not, of the measures proposed by the administration And I am glad of it to see who entertain this belief Now I do think we ought to postpone action on the bill for some little time until we shall have determined the course which it will be proper for us to pursue, and with this view of the question I shall vote against the motion of the honorable Senator

Mr Cass—Will the Senator allow me to read this short extract from the message of the President?—

"It has never been contemplated by me as an object of the war, to make a permanent conquest of the Republic of Mexico or its annihilation as an independent nation On the contrary, it has ever been my desire that she should maintain her nationality, and, under a good government, adapted to her condition be a free, independent and prosperous republic

This is exactly the course of policy which the administration intend to pursue For my own part, I do not see the practical operation of any wide on the subject in this body disconnected from active practical measures In the discussion of the subject I am aware we must expect [illegible] We must expect the origin progress, and results of this war to be attacked—that it see more me, we must [illegible] this bill may come to a decision and a decision without entering upon the general question of the origin and progress, of the war

I had intended not to say a word about the administration, or the manner in which this war arose I thought there was a common ground where we might all unite in regard to this additional step, and I repeat, I [illegible] hope the Senate will take up the bill and proceed to its consideration

Mr Calhoun—A word only in reply I am aware of the views of the President in regard to the war I have examined with great care the policy which is recommended in the message, and in my opinion, the result of that policy, if carried out, will lead to the precisely opposite course to that professed to be contemplated the [illegible] If such should be the danger, we must guard against it in some way, but if this danger does not exist, then there will be no necessity for any step on our part to guard against it But with my present information I am not prepared to give an intelligent vote upon the subject

Mr Clayton urged the necessity of delay.

Mr Benton—Beyond the consideration of the manner of the Senate there is, in my judgment, ample reason for the postponement of the consideration of this bill, until the Senate shall have discussed the resolutions submitted by the honorable member from South Carolina, as well as those which have been submitted by the honorable Senator from New York Sir, we are called upon by this bill, and likewise that will succeed it, to add a force of 30,000 men to the army of the United States We have the recommendation of the President to that effect We have his approval [illegible] of the report of the Secretary of War, which discusses three modes of operation in Mexico Certainly, it seems to me the physical [illegible] of the case [illegible] before we proceed to increase the means of offensive military operations in Mexico, we should determine for ourselves, first of the bidding of the President, but for ourselves as the constitutional depositary of the war making power and ask the object to be accomplished by these measures There is the air, beyond the range of cannon which are made by the honorable Senator from Michigan, as to the operation of the resolutions which have been submitted—here within cannon shot—but without seeking to operate on the judgment of the President without seeking to influence the judgment of the American people, except so that judgment may be operated upon by the decision of the body, we desire to see him [illegible] what it is that Congress (the war making power of this government) proposes to accomplish by the further prosecution of the war And that, I suppose, will be developed in the discussion upon the resolutions The Secretary of War submits to us three plans for the future conduct of the war He passes by as unworthy of consideration the notion of the with drawal of the troops and the restoration of peace without further trampling on our down trodden foe He then suggests three modes of prosecuting the war Have the Senate considered are they prepared to decide with the information now before them or will they prejudge discussion upon these different modes Will they not enter upon the discussion with a view to see which of the plans to be accomplished by its further prosecution and who best is the accomplishment of its hereby objects should in advance adopt the country to the expenditure Sir, we have, according to the report of the Secretary of War a force of about 42,000 men on the field, a small majority of them only consisting of regulars

The argument of the honorable Senator from Michigan, that the existence of our gallant army in Mexico renders it necessary that it should be reinforced with all speed for the defense of the objects which the war had been prosecuted [illegible] Such, at the time of his speech delivered by the Secretary of War However evident that the army in Mexico was [illegible] fortified with victory and confident in its strength [illegible] words 150,000 strong—while the army of the enemy was [illegible] dispersed, and Mexico was without any efficient government and destitute of resources, all men in search our arms

There can be nothing then in the condition of the American army which should lead us to [illegible] passage of this bill before we are certain the objects which it was proposed to accomplish [illegible] entirely answered by the [illegible] We have [illegible] the supplies [illegible] the Executive wants I have no disposition to [illegible] the property of any right in [illegible] which I [illegible] upon this bill, that I propose a great course of action to say the war in which we have decided what are just objects to be accomplished, and I suggest [illegible] the propriety of [illegible] a Senate Such a bill or [illegible] which would [illegible] the discussion of the Secretary of War For Secretary puts forth three modes for [illegible] prosecution of the war—first by destroying [illegible] holding Mexico to the hostage [illegible] and establishing permanent garrisons on the principal places, and finally by [illegible] what we already possess and abandoning [illegible] These are the plans for [illegible] Occupy Mexico [illegible] the proposition which is stated by the Senator from South Carolina, that in adopting the latter mode there is the utmost danger that we shall run into the second—that it will [illegible] and upon the subjugation of the whole Mexico

Sir, these are grave questions, and should not be precipitately pressed upon us

Mr Cass and Mr Allen were opposed to any general discussion particularly of abstract questions touching the war except what could be connected and discussed under the bill

Mr Calhoun—It appears to me, sir, that the bill is nothing up this [illegible] present [illegible] to pass the bill but suggests and in many respects compels the Senate to discuss the bill [illegible] and [illegible] discussing the bill as if we were first to discuss the resolutions The Senator is not [illegible] twenty of printed copies upon this bill now and tells us that in the next breath that we are to have the whole discussion [illegible] the bill on the war upon this bill

Mr Niles—The honorable Senator misrepresents what I said What I said was, that we ought to take up this bill and go on with the ordinary business

Mr Calhoun—I [illegible] Were we to act on the discussion upon this bill instantly we are told both by the Senator from Ohio and Michigan and in fact the discussion upon the resolutions to have precedence The Senator from Ohio says that it was parliamentary [illegible] to have the discussion upon this bill previous to discussing the resolutions Well, I acknowledge that I was [illegible] acknowledge that I would be [illegible] in order at present in the discussion upon the bill, and precluded from going into all those questions regarding the war, as we should in discussing the resolutions It will then be strictly speaking out of order to discuss, we will not have what is most important to the question of the bill, an expression of the sense of this body upon the great point as well as Mexico is to be conquered and held as a colony [illegible] or incorporated into the United States Sir, I know there are many on all sides of the Senate who believe that the policy recommended by the President and Cabinet is to be carried out by this bill will lead in the judgment and the [illegible] to the dismemberment of the Republic of Mexico, and establishing permanent garrisons on the principal places, and finally by adding what we already possess and abandoning [illegible] These are the plans for [illegible] Occupy Mexico [illegible] the proposition which is stated by the Senator from South Carolina, that in adopting the latter mode there is the utmost danger that we shall run into the second—that it will [illegible] and upon the subjugation of the whole Mexico

Sir, these are grave questions, and should not be precipitately pressed upon us

Mr Cass and Mr Allen were opposed to any general discussion particularly of abstract questions touching the war except what could be connected and discussed under the bill

Mr Calhoun—I [illegible] to say that I should have voted upon the question if present as Senator with the President and his Secretary of the War Thus recommended, approved, and urged, it is supposed the bill will become a law It shows the objects of the administration for the future, and shows that peace is far off

☞ Capt James Henry Carleton, of the U S Dragoons in which corps he took an active part in the great battle at Buena Vista, is now in this city for the purpose of recruiting his health Capt Carleton has seen much hard and sanguinary service since he was last here with his friends, and his return among them will be greeted with much pleasure
